DETAILED ACTION

Response to Appeal Brief

1. In view of the Appeal Brief filed on 05/23/02, PROSECUTION IS HEREBY REOPENED. A new ground of rejection is set forth below. Any inconvenience caused by such an action is deeply regretted.

To avoid abandonment of the application, appellant must exercise one of the following two options:

(1) file a reply under 37 CFR 1.111 (if this Office action is non-final) or a reply under 37 CFR 1.113 (if this Office action is final); or,

(2) request reinstatement of the appeal.

If reinstatement of the appeal is requested, such request must be accompanied by a supplemental appeal brief, but no new amendments, affidavits (37 CFR 1.130, 1.131 or 1.132) or other evidence are permitted. See 37 CFR 1.193(b)(2).

Drawings

2. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the plurality of housing component strips must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from claim 12. No new matter should be entered.

Art Unit: 2839

A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1-11 and 13-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Roath et al.

Roath (Figures 1-25) shows an electrical connector having a unitary dielectric housing 11B having a plurality of receptacles, each having an axis and internal surfaces parallel to the axis; a plurality of electrically conductive contacts 13 and a plurality of resilient retention members 73, 74 wherein each contact fills an opening in the retention member providing an ungapped condition to the connector at the location of the connector in the housing. Each receptacle provides a stop surface in the axial direction with the retention member being between the stop surface and the contact, and the inside surface of the receptacle provide a stop in the transverse direction. The retainers abut against these stop surfaces. The retainers are secured in the receptacle by frictional engagement providing a force fit condition. The contact has two portions, a land portion 13c and a terminal portion 13t on two sides of the retainer, which are within the housing. The terminal portion 13t is bent before or after assembly at an acute angle and offset from the axis of the receptacle. The contacts are arranged in an array in 1 mm or 0.05 inch grid.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claim 12 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Roath et al. in view of Laub.

Roath shows all the features of this claim as described in Paragraph 4 above except the housing made of a plurality of strips. The instant invention does not provide any reasons or specific problems to be solved by making the housing as a plurality of strips. Such a configuration for a contact housing is shown by Laub. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the instant invention to make the housing in several parts in the form of strips as shown by Laub because it has been held that constructing a formerly integral part in various elements involves only routine skill in the art. Nerwin v. Erlichman, 168 USPQ 177, 179.

Art Unit: 2839

R sponse to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-27 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection. Roath shows retention members providing ungapped conditions around conductive contacts.
